

During these unprecedented times, students are struggling to keep up with classes, find assistance with their work beyond online lectures, and reach out to their other classmates. Many are resorting to unique avenues of communication and community building to stay entertained and connected.

With Circle, students will be able to talk with other students in their university via forums, messaging and video chats categorized by different interests, classes, or majors. Talking with other students outside of online lectures, finding a tutor or group project members, and meeting classmates and other people in your major will be easier than ever!

While you're online, discover students with similar interests, and share a multitude of things such as friend codes for video games, recipes, and virtual events.
